BULGUR: 4000 YEARS OLD MIRACLE FOOD FROM MESOPOTAMIA

KINGS AND GLADIATORS AT THE SAME DINING TABLE

Bulgur's taste and ability to be served as a main dish, resulted in becoming the favorite food of many rulers and civilizations. Moreover, because it was filling and energizing. History has shown that gladiators were served bulgur as breakfast.

A Miracle spouting from a grain of wheat

Around 12,000 years ago, on the fertile and mineral-rich lands which lie between Middle East's two most prominent rivers, the Tigris and the Euphrates, mankind started the agricultural revolution by planting the first seed that led to modern and settled life. That seed was wheat.

Wheat and humanity contributed to each other's progress and domestication. The history of wheat and mankind moved forward hand to hand influencing each other. Sumerian Goddesses used "wheat" in their mythology and in their names. In 2800 BC, Chinese Emperor Shen Nung even declared wheat as one of the five holy grains.

Bulgur revolution

Initially used to make bread, wheat showed its true miracle around 4,000 years ago. Bulgur, the most valuable ingredient of healthy meals, was discovered!

Bulgur, which was first boiled then ground in a mortar after drying, played an important role in the formation and diversification of the Mesopotamian cuisine. It became a staple for those who carried out labor intensive tasks due to its healthy, nutrition rich qualities.

REAL BULGUR FOR TODAY

What makes Duru Bulgur one of the healthiest and most natural food items is its production.

Today, in order to achieve high capacity many producers choose to use cylindrical cutting machines to produce bulgur.

However, Duru Bulgur has been using traditional stone mills in its modern plants since 1935. Duru Bulgur continues to honor this 4,000 year old tradition of bulgur; and has the pleasure to serve high quality, natural bulgur.

Chia has high fiber, high omega 3 fatty acids, high protein and it is a source of magnesium, calcium, iron and zinc.
